

GATES'S $6,000 TRIP WAS FOR A CASE OF CHAUFFEUR'S KNEE

It's Common Among Auto Drivers and as Fatal as Housemaid's Knee.

BUT HE BROKE RECORDS.

Wanted to Go to Hospital, but There Wasn't Enough the Matter.

Charles G. Gates is resting comfortably at his Madison avenue (No. 65) home. The corps of physicians in attendance predict his early recovery from "chauffeur's knee," which, though more painful, is really little more alarming than "housemaid's knee."

The son of Betcherhamilton John W. Gates bore up well under the jolting of his mile-a-minute special from Yuma, Ariz. He was delighted at the record he hung up. As for the bill—$6,000—a mere bag of shells.

Arriving at the Grand Central Station last night, young Mr. Gates wanted to continue his record-smashing by making a final dash to the New York Hospital. He liked the way the doctors of that institution managed the removal of his appendix and felt that they could accomplish further wonders in curing him of the "chauffeur's knee."

'Tis a Common Malady.

The "chauffeur's knee," by the way, is a common malady in this taxi-rabbling town. Few automobile pilots have escaped an attack of it now and then. It comes from letting the crank slip before you can get your knee out of the way. It is very painful at first, and you feel as if you had lost your knee cap. It indicates a bad strain and sometimes the skin breaks. Then there is congestion conducive to profanity.

C. G. Gates rarely has to crank his own machines. He did so down in lower California on a ranch he and Walter Dupeu own, and where they spend the winter hunting the wild and untamed jack rabbit and pursuing the elusive weasel to his lair.

It was a bad job that C. G. Gates got, and he felt greatly alarmed over it. He hired a trained nurse, Mrs. Rasmussen, in Chicago, made himself as comfortable as possible in his private car, and started East at a rate of speed to make Halley's Comet look like a sailing plater.

But when he landed at the Grand Central Station and Dr. E. F. Feltows Davis of No. 7 West Forty-seventh street looked him over he ridiculed the idea that it was necessary for him to go to New York Hospital. Mr. Gates's case of chauffeur's knee was no more alarming than thousands of similar cases that occur in this metropolis every week.

Got a Lot of Attention.

But it certainly was some trip that "Chauffeur" made East. Every city in the United States and half the capitals of Europe were kept informed of the train's progress by special bulletins. Kaiser Wilhelm, the Chinese Emperor read all about it in their morning papers, and probably wondered in what opera company Charles sang or what brand of tea or coffee he was interested in.

There isn't a prima donna in Christendom who didn't envy Mr. Gates as his private car glided across desert and prairie, shot up mountain passes and poked through bustling cities. Their only criticism was that the train didn't stop often enough to permit of short, snappy interviews along the route.

Mr. Gates's mother-in-law, Melville D. Martin, his nurse and his secretary, Charles Harmon, were his constant companions on this historical journey. His wife and his mother were informed almost hourly of the approach of the Gates special.

He Was Improving.

They were also informed of the con-

RHEUMATISM

Murray's Rheumatism Remedy relieves pain in the legs, arms, back, stiff or swollen joints. Contains no morphine, opium, cocaine or drugs to deadden the system. It drives out the rheumatic poisons from the system. Prof. Murray, 533 and Jefferson St., Philadelphia, Pa., for medical advice, absolutely free.

They were also informed of the continued improvement of the patient, of how he could sit up and watch the peaks of the Rocky Mountains merge swiftly in the snow-clad summits of the Alleghenies, of how he saw telegraph poles joined into a compact fence, of how he fussed and fumed at a delay of two hours on the plains of Kansas, holding his watch in his hand and condemning certain railroad officers for failing to give him a perfect clear-way.

Mrs. Gates sr. and Mrs. Gates jr. were unable to meet the special when it roared into the Grand Central Station last night, having made the 15 miles run from Albany in 1-1/2 minutes.

He immediately paid a fine of $1,000 when it was imposed on his promise to pay the $600 duty.

NEW ROBIN SANITY TRIAL.

Set by Judge Hough in the U. S. Court.

Samuel G. Goldsmith, who was assigned by Judge Hough in the United States District Court to act as counsel for Joseph D. Robin on the ground that Robin was incompetent and unable to aid in preparing a defense to the bankruptcy proceedings instituted by State Bank

Superintendent Cheney, had the case put on the calendar to-day for trial.

The first hearing will be held not earlier than Feb. 27. Mr. Goldsmith said all the attorneys who testified in the State court trial of Robin's sanity would be called as witnesses. They all agreed that Robin was insane, but the jury decided that he was sane. Robin was not in court today.

Driftwood, with its one hundred acres of land, which was the property of Robin, will be sold at the Suffolk County Court House, Riverhead, at noon on April 15 to satisfy a lien of Gilbert D. Zoper, a Port Jefferson contractor.
